Mine worked without any updates, just enabled the English via Vag-Com in the BT unit(You need the cable and softwear to do it) but as i say, after a few weeks of hassle and unreliability i changed it back.. If you have Bluetooth you can enable the SDS voice control for telephone via VCDS(VAG-COM) with the right software installed but I would'nt recomend it! I tried it for a few weeks with more then just a few problems.. But the MMI has to be a certain level to work correctly, I have found version 2120 is high enough to get telephone voice control.. If you car has no SDS but it has telephone I would say the software is too low and needsto be updated.. So u're SA will most likley know nothing about it, only want to sell you the additional module.

If you can find one ending with the M Prefix, you know it's been updated Iso/iec 19752.. SDS is an option and a new module is required for full SDS The BT SDS only works with the phone and after trawling the forums it seems the due to the BT problems once enabled, Audi do not enable it.. The module appears to struggle with memory, once I saved a few name tags the whole BT started playing up including the mic not working BT signal dropping during calls, crackly speakers, taking upto 10 mins to pair with phone.
